THE VELMA MILLER WOMEN'S STUDIES GRADUATE SCHOLAR AWARD Application Form 2021-2022

This award supports graduate work in women's and gender studies and honors Velma M. Miller, a founding member of the West Virginia Alliance for Women's Studies and a leader in community service. Candidates for this award must be women who have been accepted into a post-baccalaureate degree program at WVU. The recipients must be enrolled for a minimum of 9 graduate credits in the semester during which the award is made and have a graduate GPA of 3.0 or higher. The coursework and/or theses of the candidates should have significant women's and gender studies content. In addition, successful candidates must demonstrate leadership ability and show unusual promise as leaders in their fields who are committed to social justice.

All portions of the application must be submitted no later than 11:59PM on March 18, 2022
